Tanuja Dabir, R.H.N

Welcome!

Before we get to the Sugar Detox I've got to share a secret with you. I may be a holistic nutritionist now, but that wasn't always the case.

In fact, if someone had told me a few years ago I'd be interested in nutrition, I would have laughed.

I mean, we all 'think' we know about what eat and what to avoid, the 'healthy foods' vs. 'junk foods'. What's the need to study nutrition for that, or even consult with a nutritionist for that matter?

So what the heck happened that made me revisit my food habits and eventually study nutrition? You see I was always exhausted, craved sugar, had chronic pain and IBS and was putting on weight steadily. The innumerable doctor's visits and pill popping spree was not helping.

I was tired, fat and felt gross. I just couldn't take it anymore.

Click here to read my full story.

Fast forward to the present time, I've taken charge of my health, conquered my cravings, healed my digestion and controlled my weight. After spending thousands of hours on research, studying natural nutrition, and many satisfied, healthier clients later; I've combined all my personal experience and professional expertise in a powerful solution that can finally show you how to eat clean without deprivation and propel your health naturally EVEN if you've tried everything else and failed.

Ready to finally kick start your journey to a healthier you?

Warmly,

Tanuja Dabir

Welcome to the 3 Day Sugar Free Detox

You probably haven't spent a ton of time wondering what happens to your body after you eat something sugary – it goes in there with all the rest of the food you consume and keeps you alive – end of story.

Well, sugar is definitely important to staying alive, carbohydrates are the primary source of energy, and play an important role in the functioning of the internal organs, the nervous system and the muscles, but our systems do not need sugar in the quantity that we are used to.

Before food processing, when sugar was mainly obtained from fruits and vegetables, people consumed about 30 grams per day of it. Today, an average American consumes 76 grams a day, which is about 19 teaspoons. That adds up to 96 pounds of sugar yearly (40 lbs. of which is high fructose corn syrup).

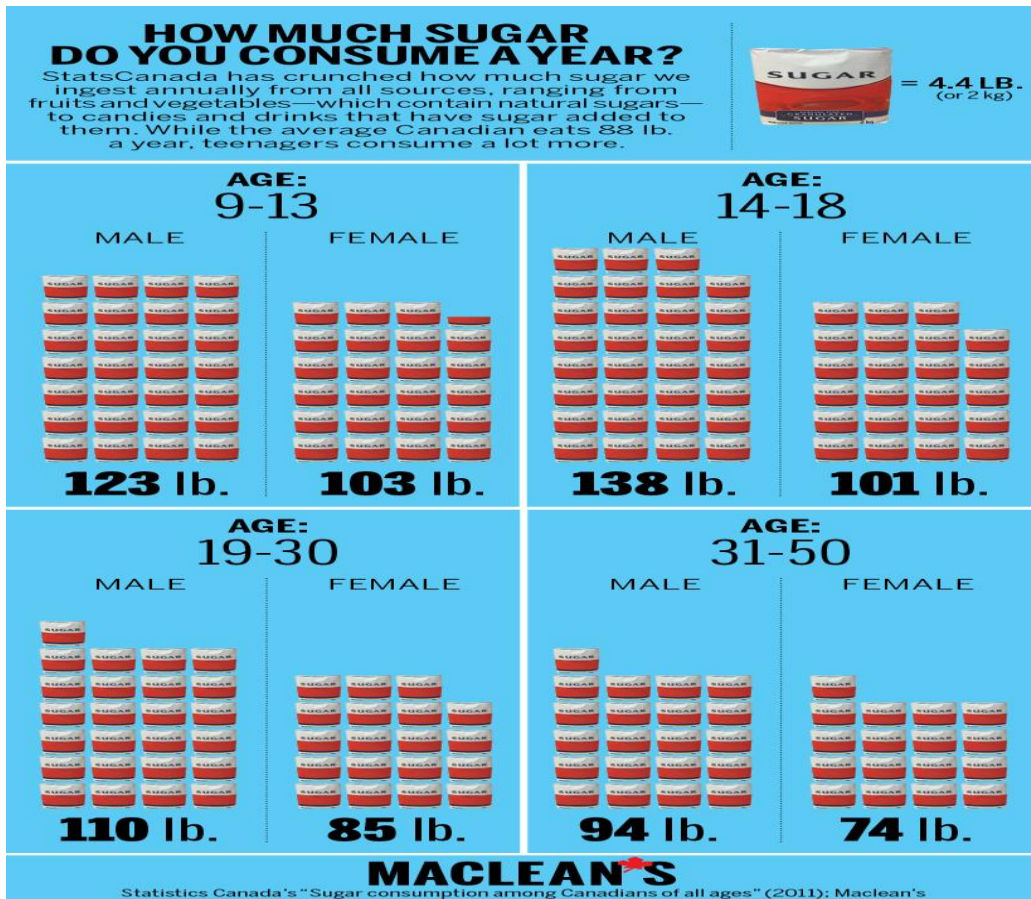

Canadians consume slightly lower amounts at 88 pounds. The World Health Organization would like to see the number get down to 25 grams a day for both men and women (6 ¼ teaspoons).

High amounts of sugar can wreak havoc on our immune systems, hormones and digestion. Some of the negative effects are: premature aging, weight gain, fatigue, bone loss, mental fatigue, depression and it is a major contributing factor to diabetes, heart disease and cancer.

How much sugar do you consume in a day? At first thought, you probably think, "not that much". Let's have a look, starting with breakfast. For example, you begin your day with a bagel with peanut butter and a small strawberry yogurt - for a total of 33 grams of sugar. At mid morning you have a large cup of coffee from your favorite coffee shop (double/ double) - 34 grams of sugar.

For lunch you decide to go easy on the calories so you have a salad with Italian vinaigrette and a slice of whole wheat bread - that's another 14 grams of sugar. For an afternoon pick-me-up you have a can of pop - 39 grams of sugar. And then for dinner you have some pasta with grilled chicken and store bought tomato sauce - that's 9 grams for the sauce and about 2 grams from the noodles.

The GRAND TOTAL: 131 grams of sugar or 32 teaspoons (roughly ¾ of a cup)!

That's a bit of an eye opener for sure. This Sugar Free Detox was created so you can gain control of your sugar addiction, (yes, it is an addiction) and ease you off of sugar in the long term.

Sugar is labeled as an addiction because it stimulates the brain in a way that is similar to cocaine and alcohol, causing the release of the feel good chemicals dopamine and serotonin.

When sugar is consumed in large quantities it has several effects:

- It causes people to eat it, despite the negative consequences like weight gain, fatigue and moodiness
- Tolerance will develop and more will be needed for the same effect, this equals cravings
- Some people have trouble functioning without it and have a "stash" available when their energy plummets
- Upon quitting sugar withdrawal symptoms may appear

This last one is why we have labeled this "a challenge", as it may be difficult to stay on track when the cravings hit – but we have provided emergency fixes and a very detailed and easy to follow meal plan and recipes. With some advanced planning, a trip to the grocery store and a positive attitude, you will come out the other side feeling great!

When you make it to the end of the 3 days, reward yourself! But not with sugar! Break the “treat” pattern of rewarding good behavior or success with something sweet. The first 3 days of any addiction are the hardest – but when it is over you will be able to reduce your sugar intake as your taste buds quickly change and things that you used to love may begin to taste overly sweet. You may find yourself reaching for a fruit instead. Congratulations... You did it!

10 Tips to Break the Addiction

- 1. Stop fluctuating and start balancing: Get your blood sugar levels steady first by eating breakfast within a half hour of waking and then eat smaller meals more often or make sure you are having healthy snacks every couple of hours. Eating a balanced meal while sitting down calmly is very important.
- 2. Start combining: Eat simple carbohydrates with a fat and protein at each meal and snack. When sugary foods are taken on their own it can quickly satisfy hunger and lift energy, but it leaves room for future cravings when energy begins to slump a few hours later.
- 3. Plan your day: Meal planning and grocery shopping might seem like an added stress, but really it can be a lifesaver. This way you can control your sugar on a meal to meal, daily or weekly basis. If you have a packed lunch and snacks ready to go, it is a lot harder to fall off the wagon.
- 4. Make a list: Why do you want to quit sugar? Make a thorough list of why it is important to you and then refer back to it when a craving hits.
- 5. Address underlying health issues: When sugar addiction is out of control it might be your body's cry for attention. Some issues that manifest as sugar cravings are stress/ adrenal fatigue, yeast overgrowth, hypothyroid, unbalanced hormones or a slow thyroid. A lot of people also link sugar with both positive and negative emotions.
- 6. Take a multi-vitamin/ mineral supplement: Sometimes it is not just a sugar craving but a craving for missing nutrients, like magnesium in chocolate or chromium in oatmeal cookies. B vitamins are especially critical.

7. Get a good night's sleep: Your cravings for sugar might be a cycle of needing the instant pick-me-up that sugar can give. The cycle is set in motion by not getting enough quality sleep, requiring an artificial energy boost by mid-morning.

8. Avoid triggers: Just like a substance abuse problem, sugar addiction can be perpetuated by constantly following the same patterns, like going to the same coffee shop or watching late night TV.

9. Do something else: Take your mind off sugar by finding a new activity to pursue – knitting, walking, reading, yoga, board games – the sky's the limit.

10. Get support: When things get rough call up a friend to talk things out. Better yet, get a friend, colleague or loved one to do the challenge with you!

EMERGENCY! What to do When You Feel the Crave

Even in a short 3 day sugar detox, your body will probably have some intense cravings for sweets. Cravings usually only last between 10 to 20 minutes, but when you need Sugar NOW:

1. Drink some water. Often when you are thirsty, your body interprets it as hunger. Try drinking a large glass of water, then wait 10 minutes and see how you feel.

2. Assess your hunger. Are you hungry? The sugar craving is usually your first thought when you are hungry as it will provide energy the fastest. Take time to prepare some food to address the hunger.

3. Go for a walk. Take your mind off the craving by changing the scenery for 15 minutes; the craving should take care of itself by the time you get back. If you walk briskly you will increase the release of endorphins, which will squash your craving.

4. Take a hot shower. The heat and steam in a hot shower will help you relax and give you perspective on your craving.

5. Eat a piece of fruit or a healthy snack.

6. Chew some gum. Make sure it is sweetened with Xylitol. Some nice brands are: Pür Gum, Glee Gum and Xyla. Trident Xtracare is more readily available but has more additives than the others.

7. Assess your mood. Are you feeling unsupported, tired, angry or overwhelmed? Try to find ways of dealing with these issues before you reach for the sweets. For a quick fix, take 3 deep breaths – it has been clinically shown to reduce stress.

8. Eat a bit of what you are craving. Keep it under 150 calories and combine it with a healthy fat and protein combination like almonds. Don't feel guilty! Savor it. Then go re-read why you want to quit sugar and get back on the horse.

SUGAR Alternatives

There are so many types of sugar out there, it can be completely confusing! The sweeteners that are going to be used in the 3 Day Sugar Free Detox have to be sugar free.

Stevia: Stevia is an herbal product, from the leaves of Stevia Rebaudiana. It is naturally sweet, very sweet. It may lower blood pressure. Available in liquid or powdered form, it has a potential after-taste. More liquid should be added for desired consistency – the rule is to add 1/8 cup of liquid, but some experimenting may be needed.

Xylitol: Chemically processed from the Birch tree/bark. It may inhibit bacterial growth in the mouth. Having too much will quickly cause gastric distress. It may ferment in the intestines, causing bloating, gas or diarrhea. It is as sweet as sugar but has 40% less calories than real sugar. It does not work well in breads.

Conversion Chart: When using sugarless substitutes or “the best” sweeteners in recipes:

1 cup of white sugar = 2 tablespoons powdered Stevia or 1 teaspoon liquid Stevia

1 cup of white sugar = 1 cup Whey Low

1 cup of white sugar = 1 cup xylitol

1 cup of white sugar = ½ cup honey

1 cup of white sugar = ½ cup plus 1 teaspoon maple syrup

1 cup of white sugar = 1 cup coconut palm sugar

1 cup of white sugar = ¾ cup evaporated cane sugar

BEST to the WORST

After the 3 day period you might want to introduce sugar back into your life. The following is a list of the best to the worst:

The Best

1. Maple syrup
2. Honey
3. Coconut palm sugar
4. Evaporated cane juice
5. Fruit derived sugars like ripe banana, unsweetened apple sauce, whole dates

The In-Betweens

1. Raw sugar: Turbinado, Muscovado, Demerara, Rapadura/ Panela
2. Agave nectar
3. Yacon syrup
4. Brown rice syrup

The Worst

1. White sugar
2. Beet sugar, grape sugar
3. Brown sugar
4. Added sugars and sugar synonyms: Glucose, Fructose, Sucrose, Caramel, Lactose, Maltose, Dextrose, Maltodextrin plus more!
5. Artificial sweeteners: Sucralose/ Splenda, NutraSweet, Equal, Sweet and Low
6. Sorbitol: Extracted from corn syrup

THE Absolute WORST

Corn Syrup, High Fructose Corn Syrup (HFCS) or Glucose/Fructose: Consists of industrially treated, genetically modified cornstarch that has been converted into sugar. The process is very inexpensive but uses huge amounts of energy to produce. There are extreme health risks associated with HFCS that come from its conversion to triglycerides or circulating fats in the blood. Blood triglycerides are stored as fat, which increases the size of fat cells, causing weight gain and is associated with diabetes, heart disease and obesity.

Living the Sweet Life: Tips to Avoid Sugar in the “Real World”

FAQs about the 3 Day Sugar Free Detox

1. Can I eat fruit? What kind is best?

Yes, fruit is an acceptable way to consume sugar – it is a whole food. The complex carbohydrates in fruit come in the form of both soluble and insoluble fiber. This allows the natural sugars to be released more slowly and will regulate blood sugar, especially when paired with a fat and protein. Some fruits have lower amounts of fructose which makes them low-glycemic. All of the examples on the chart contain less than 10 grams of fructose per serving. Some fruits are very sweet and should be avoided for 72-hours, such as grapes, cherries, bananas, mangos and dried fruits.

Type of Fruit	Serving Size	Grams of Fructose
Apricot	1 medium	0.9 g
Cantaloupe	4 slices	1.3 g
Raspberries	1 cup	3.0 g
Clementine	1 medium	3.4 g
Kiwi	1 medium	3.4 g
Blackberries	1 cup	3.5 g
Strawberries	1 cup	3.8 g
Pink Grapefruit	½ medium	4.5 g
Tangerine	1 medium	4.8 g
Nectarine	1 medium	5.4 g
Apple	½ medium	6.3 g
Pear	½ medium	5.9 g

2. Can I have any alcohol?

During the Challenge the body may be detoxifying, which means there will be added strain on the liver. Try to give alcohol a break for 3 days. After that here are your best choices:

- Wine: Dry red wine is the best at 1-3 grams of sugar per liter
- Spirits: Gin/Vodka/Whisky is okay, but you should have it on the rocks or with soda water (not tonic water)
- Beer: Must be light, like Bud Light (7 grams of carbs) or Corona Light (5 grams of carbs)

3. Is chocolate okay?

While on the Challenge, all regular chocolate is out. But if you want a chocolaty flavor try a handful of raw cacao nibs. Afterwards aim for chocolate that contains at least 60% cocoa.

4. Which vegetables are the sweetest?

Vegetables make up the bulk of the food you will be eating on the 3 Day Sugar Free Detox. Almost all of them are acceptable and can be substituted as need be. There are a few to avoid for the duration as some of them are starchy (parsnip and potato) while others are just very high in sucrose (like carrots, beets, and peas). Of all the legumes and lentils are your best bet.

Type of Vegetable	Serving Size	Grams of Sugar
All Greens: Swiss chard, collards, spinach, arugula, kale, etc.	1 cup	0.17- 1.63 g
Celery	1 cup	1.85 g
Cucumber	1 cup	0.87 g
Olives	5 medium	1 g
Broccoli	1 cup	1.55 g
Cauliflower	1 cup	2.04 g
Zucchini	1 cup	2.49 g
Asparagus	1 cup	2.52 g
Tomato	1 medium	3.23 g
Lentils	1 cup	3.9 g

5. What beverages can I have?

Lots and lots of water! Remember sometimes the body mistakes thirst for hunger, this triggers cravings. Water will also flush the system out and reduce the potential effects of withdrawal from sugar. Caffeinated drinks might be hard on your system, but if you must sweeten with Stevia or xylitol, or not at all. Other acceptable drinks are herbal teas, lemon water, sugar free kefir and kombucha. The last 2 are highly recommended, as they will help boost good bacteria in the gut.

6. Where can I eat out?

We understand that it is difficult to cook all meals at home and follow the 3 day Sugar Free Detox implicitly. There are a few options out there in the real world for when you want to eat out:

- Sashimi at a sushi restaurant (watch out! sushi rice is sweetened)
- Indian food: Not necessarily all low fat, but definitely low in sugar
- Ethiopian food: Mostly beans and meats, and the injira bread is fermented

- Raw food restaurants: They can't use anything that has been heated over 150 degrees, so processed sugars are definitely out
- Regular restaurants: Opt for grilled fish or chicken (no BBQ) and have it with steamed vegetables or a salad (make sure the dressing is sugar free, and if you're unsure ask for lemon and olive oil)

7. Which products have hidden sugar?

Some foods that we love to eat all the time actually have tons of sugar. This can be disappointing for sure. Keep an eye out for sugar content in: ketchup, chips (potato/ corn), white flour, white rice, sauces, dips, deli meats, nut butters, balsamic vinegar and barbecued items.

8. What should I look for on package labels?

Have you noticed that on nutrition labels sugar is the only item that is listed without a "% daily value"? This is because if it had to be labeled the percentage would be huge, over 100%! The ingredients matter more. Companies will use a variety of sugars to avoid having to list "sugar" as their first ingredient. Use the handy Best/ Worst chart included here to check for all the different varieties of sugar.

9. What are my best choice sweeteners?

For this detox: Stevia and Xylitol.

10. Which sweeteners should I avoid at all costs?

High Fructose Corn Syrup (known as Glucose/ Fructose in Canada) and white sugar.

11. Can I eat grains?

Yes, the carbohydrates in whole grains are released slowly due to their fiber content. Your best choices are buckwheat, millet, oats and quinoa. On a side note, quinoa is actually a seed, but it works so well in place of white rice it often gets included as a grain.

12. What is the easiest way to stay on track?

Follow the emergency craving tips PLUS:

- Each meal should contain leafy greens, and a high quality fat and protein
- You can support your digestion with enzymes or apple cider vinegar and a quality probiotic supplement
- Healthy fats are great for satisfying a craving and they help trigger satiety and are needed to absorb fat-soluble vitamins (A, D, E & K)
- Replace processed foods (oils, sugars, chemicals) as they send messages to the brain leading to addiction

13. What do I do once the challenge is complete?

1. Congratulate yourself on a job well done! Whether you followed the diet completely or cheated a little, you did your best and you now have a better understanding of how sugar is everywhere and some tips on how to keep on track.
2. Remove temptation. Take some time to clear out the junk from your house, car and workplace. It's the old adage, out of sight, out of mind.
3. Slowly change your grocery shopping to echo your reduced sugar needs. It is extremely difficult to transform your kitchen into a clean green machine in one go, by slowly replacing products as you use them up, your kitchen will transform over time, without breaking the bank.
4. Keep working towards your goal of eliminating harmful sweeteners. You have completed step one on your sugar reduced or sugar free journey. Keep your list of reasons why you want to be healthier handy and reference it when you start to fall off the wagon.
5. Continue to drink more water. Don't forget most cravings can be quelled with a tall glass of water.

3 Day Sugar Free Detox Menu
